

All you need is love

Ozzy Osbourne has been spending as much time as possible at his wife Sharon's bedside as she battles cancer.

Ozzy is devastated, fearing he could lose his much-loved wife.

But Sharon insists that 'every cloud has a silver lining'.

Her illness has effectively brought about a reunion with her estranged father Don Arden after 20 years.

'My dad and I have buried the hatchet,' says Sharon, 49, who fell out with Don after 'stealing' his former client Ozzy.

'I did take Ozzy from him,' she admits. 'He signed him and paid for his first solo record, then I married Ozzy and began to manage him.' And she admits she has quite a temper, once trying to run her old man over in her car!

OZZY OSBOURNE

CRACKED ACTOR

DAY JOB: Grizzled dark lord of metal BUT ON SCREEN: Ozzy knows his limitations, avoiding jobs that require memorizing a lot of dialogue — or anything much at all. Aside from the creatively "ironic" casting that sees him play a straight-laced evangelist in 1986's schlock-horror farrago Trick or Treat, he's largely stuck to appearing in substandard comedies as "Himself" — in a visual shorthand for pantomime evil.

WORST MOMENT: Trick or Treat (40th min.): A befuddled Ozzy fluffs his lines while quoting a lyric he finds particularly distasteful: "Gonna guide my long steel missile down on your love channel."

Ozzy's Royal Invitation

Kelly Osbourne's dad Ozzy has decided he'd like Prince William as a new house guest! After hearing that William was interested in living in America when he graduates from university, Ozzy invited him to stay at his Beverly Hills mansion. Wonder how the Queen feels about that?

Yes!

Ozzy Osbourne was feared dead?

Whispers about Ozzy Osbourne's demise started circulating recently after the heavy-metal man missed a TV appearance. After a flood of calls, Ozzy's rep reassured fans the rumours were unfounded.

► Do you like eating bats for breakfast? Or doves for dinner perhaps? If so, write to me, Ozzy Osbourne. I'm a real nasty bastard and I don't give a damn about anyone who's nice, so you gotta be tough if you wanna write to me. Any dag likely to be offended or even a teeny bit depressed, by my lyrics is not wanted. So there!

“Some days we don't talk. Some days we're like two kids. Some days we're f**cking not even on the same planet. But you get on with it.”

— OZZY OSBOURNE, on sometimes hating being married to Sharon.

“Being sober on a bus is, like, totally different from being drunk on a bus.”

We hope Ozzy Osbourne's not talking about the driving part of being on a bus.
