ROCK legend Ozzy Osbourne has revealed he's spent time visiting American soldiers injured in Iraq.

The former Black Sabbath frontman, who was born in Aston but spends most of his time in the US, said: "You see these guys in hospital and it's horrible.

"No arms, no legs, eyes gone, they'd be better off dead."

Speaking ahead of the launch of his first studio album for six years tomorrow, Ozzy said he just didn't understand the point of war.

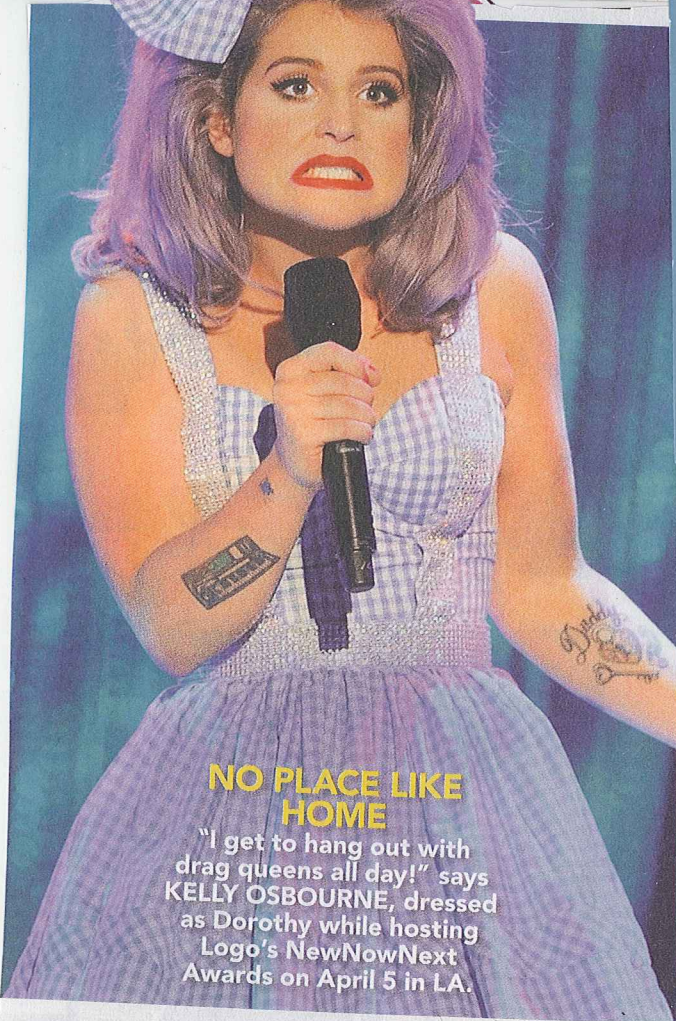

He explained: "If you're on one side and I'm on the other and you get killed and I get killed them we've both lost.

"I'd have thought people would have learned, humanity would have learned by now."

But he added: "I'm not turning into one of those people, you know, going around Hyde Park saying "Stop the War". That's not me."

Sharon Osbourne shocks her boss...

Ever since her MTV show The Osbournes first aired in 2002, Sharon Osbourne has courted controversy. But since pulling out as a judge on The X Factor last year, her popularity has waned.

Now her latest outrageous behaviour has landed her in trouble. While filming her American TV show Rock Of Love: Charm School, she reportedly assaulted Megan Hauserman after the former Playboy model insulted her husband, Ozzy. Megan told Sharon that she was only famous for managing a 'brain-dead rock star'. According to Megan, Sharon grabbed her, pulled her hair and scratched her. She claimed they had to be pulled apart by security. The next day, Megan went to hospital where she had her left arm put in a sling. The incident is still being investigated by the LAPD.

woman hears this latest scandal could jeopardise her chances of returning to The X Factor. 'Simon is a friend of the Osbournes, so it's a sticky situation. He adores Sharon but he's a businessman first and doesn't want to risk his reputation.' Despite this, Sharon is still set to return to the fourth series of Simon's other show America's Got Talent. In 2007 she juggled Talent and X Factor, so conflicting schedules wouldn't be a problem if Simon says it's time for a UK comeback.
