

OZZY IN HOSPITAL FOR A CHEQUE-UP

GRATEFUL rocker Ozzy Osbourne hands a £50,000 "thank you" to one of the doctors who saved his life.

The singer, 55, whipped out the cheque on a surprise trip to the hospital where he spent two weeks after a quad-bike smash. He shook hands with medical director Dr Dick Jack, pictured right, and told him: "I've been to several hospitals in my life.

"But this is definitely the best — the service was second to none." The ex-Black Sabbath star suffered multiple injuries in the accident at his Buckinghamshire estate in early December.

He was still in a neckbrace when he thanked doctors and nurses at Wexham Park Hospital in Slough, Berks.
