

Ozzy Osbourne

Rogers Arena, 7:30 p.m.

The heavy-metal legend hit the news this week: he had his full genome analyzed. "I was curious," Osbourne explained to the Sunday Times. "Given the swimming pools of booze I've guzzled — not to mention the cocaine, morphine, sleeping pills, cough syrup, LSD — you name it — there's really no plausible reason why I should still be alive. Maybe my DNA could say why."

Ozzy Viag-bourne

Ozzy Osbourne pops Viagra so he can satisfy wife Sharon every night.

Sharon complimented the wild rocker for his sexual appetite, saying: "He's like a fing rabbit. We have sex every night we're together."

But Ozzy let slip his sexual prowess was down to the little blue pills. Ozzy said: "Yeah, that's about right. Viagra darling."

Despite his regular nocturnal activities with Sharon, father-of-three Ozzy says he definitely doesn't want any more children.

He told Britain's Heat magazine: "I thought I did for five minutes once. Then I thought, 'What are you thinking?' It's like putting a gun to your head, shooting, missing, and then thinking, 'Oh, I've missed, I'll try again!' "Some people over the age of 60 can do it. But at the age of 57, I want to change a diaper like I need a hole in the head."
