OZZY OSBOURNE usually hides his eyes behind sunglasses but when he removed his specs in this photo, it was quite a shock. Wife Sharon has admitted to nips and tucks over the years, and it appears the 55-year-old rocker may have joined her club. Star asked L.A. plastic surgeon Dr. Wallace Goodstein for his opinion.

EYE JOB?

Dr. Goodstein says the aging rocker may have had work on his eyes, explaining, "I think he's had fatty deposits removed and skin tightened on his lower eyelids. "His right lid looks like it has been pulled a little too tight, but overall, it's quite a good job." He also believes Ozzy's eyeliner is permanently tattooed.

CHEEK & JAW WORK?

"He looks like he's had his cheeks lifted," Dr. Goodstein tells Star. As for his newly chiseled jaw: "He's probably had some liposuction of fatty tissue along his jawline and neck." The rocker's ruddy skin is likely rosacea, a red rash that acts up during times of stress.
